Amendment #2 Description of Equipment/Services

LOC8

BI LOC8™ is a light, compact, one piece, ankle-mounted device that tracks offender location and community movement in near-real time. LOC8 collects GPS as frequently as once every 15 seconds, giving agencies detailed information about a client's movement. In standard operation, LOC8 searches for a location fix multiple times per minute, and records the best point every minute. The GPS location technology that we use includes Assisted, Autonomous GPS and CellLocate. LOC8 also has the ability to utilize Wi-Fi signals, which can provide accurate location information in impaired urban canyons or densely populated environments. Wi-Fi is a positioning technology with extensive geographical coverage. BI leverages the massive location databases that are being built by companies, to create a more robust offender tracking product. It has a removable battery that can be exchanged with the another battery when one needs to be charged.

Smartlink

SmartLINK, a secure monitoring mobile app that is downloaded to a participant's personal smartphone or tablet, confirms compliance and increases accountability through four independent modules. Each module is controlled by the officer through BI TotalAccess®. This modular approach allows flexibility for the agency and the officer to tailor what is delivered to the participant's phone. Scheduled notifications are sent to remind participants of supervision activities including court dates, counseling appointments, job interviews, and more. Application access is controlled by username and password security features to ensure data privacy.

SmartLink is a mobile application that uses a biometric identity feature and the mobile device's GPS to monitor your caseload. Each client downloads the application to their smartphone and/or tablet and they can respond to monitoring requirements that are fixed or random check-in schedule, receive notification reminders for court appointments or report life changes that may affect monitoring requirements. They have immediate access to community referral sources. The setting can be set depending on a client's compliance, their needs, and risk level. The four primary modules are Check-In, Self Report, Resources, and Calendar.

Lost, Stolen, and/or Damaged Units

The following language in the contract shall apply to all LOC8 and SmartLink equipment: The contractor will cover the cost of lost, stolen, or damaged equipment in an amount of no less than fifteen percent (15%) of the annualized daily average of offender units within a project site. To the extent possible, DOC will assist the contractor in recovering restitution from the responsible individual(s).

Community-Based Group Offender Supervision

Practical and cost-effective alternatives to incarceration are always being investigated by state, federal and local corrections agencies. In instances where multiple family members or material witnesses reside together and must be electronically monitored, BI GroupGuard® offers a reliable solution. GroupGuard was designed to meet the specific challenges of corrections agencies charged with handling unique offender housing situations.

Product Overview

GroupGuard is a sophisticated electronic supervision system that enables agencies to accurately monitor more than one individual living in a single residence. This innovative option requires minimal equipment and ensures that offenders living in the same residence, while on electronic monitoring, comply with court and agency orders.

GroupGuard builds on the BI HomeGuard® 200 system, the premiere electronic monitoring system available today. Building on this proven technology, GroupGuard provides an effective solution when more than one monitored individual resides in a home. The GroupGuard device can "listen" to multiple transmitters and provide an accurate reading for individual schedules, curfews, and other information or events related to an offender on the system.

GroupGuard technology employs many of the features that corrections agencies have grown comfortable with – a transmitter worn by the offender, a receiver stationed in the home, and the ability to relay data to a host computer and monitoring specialists to verify schedules and curfews are in compliance. The GroupGuard receiver monitors the absence or presence of an offender within a specified range.

Built-in Flexibility

Designed for quality and consistency, the GroupGuard system can meet any curfew monitoring requirements, ideal for matching different offender risks and needs. This includes variable range settings at the agency-level, as well as variable leave windows and unlimited schedules for each participant.

Backed by the Industry Leader

BI has defined the standard for quality in electronic monitoring services. While many companies provide monitoring equipment, BI also provides wraparound monitoring services that ensure consistency, reliability, accuracy and responsiveness to support your offender monitoring programs. BI Monitoring Operations is a 24x7x365 service that guarantees expert support and guidance. And since BI is ISO 9001:2008 certified, BI Monitoring Operations is evaluated extensively in a rigorous and continuous examination and commitment to quality.
