Alaska FASD Partnership

The Alaska Fetal Alcohol Spectrum Disorders (FASD) Partnership is a coalition of over 110 organizations and individuals committed to addressing issues related to FASD in Alaska.

The mission of the Alaska FASD Partnership is to promote awareness, prevention, and effective life-long interventions for those affected by prenatal exposure to alcohol and their families.

The Partnership was formed in early 2010 after a groundswell of stakeholder effort and public comment to the Advisory Board on Alcoholism and Drug Abuse and its partners about the need for a more organized effort to address FASD in Alaska.

The Partnership is guided by a steering committee of individuals, organizations, and state agencies, including people who experience FASD, family members, and professionals who work in the field. Additionally, the steering committee has members representing the Departments of Health & Social Services, Corrections, Education and Early Development, Labor and Workforce Development, and the Alaska Court System.

Eight workgroups of the Partnership are actively addressing a variety of issues related to FASD, including developing policy and funding recommendations, workforce development, promoting collaborations and public awareness, research, training, and more. They are:

- Diagnosis and Parent Navigation
- Family and Peer Support
- Prevention and Treatment for Pregnant Women
- FASD and the Education System
- FASD and the Legal System
- Services for Adults with FASD
- Professional Development
- Youth and FASD
