

Getting A Little Behind?

ILP Database Late Data Entry
Discussion

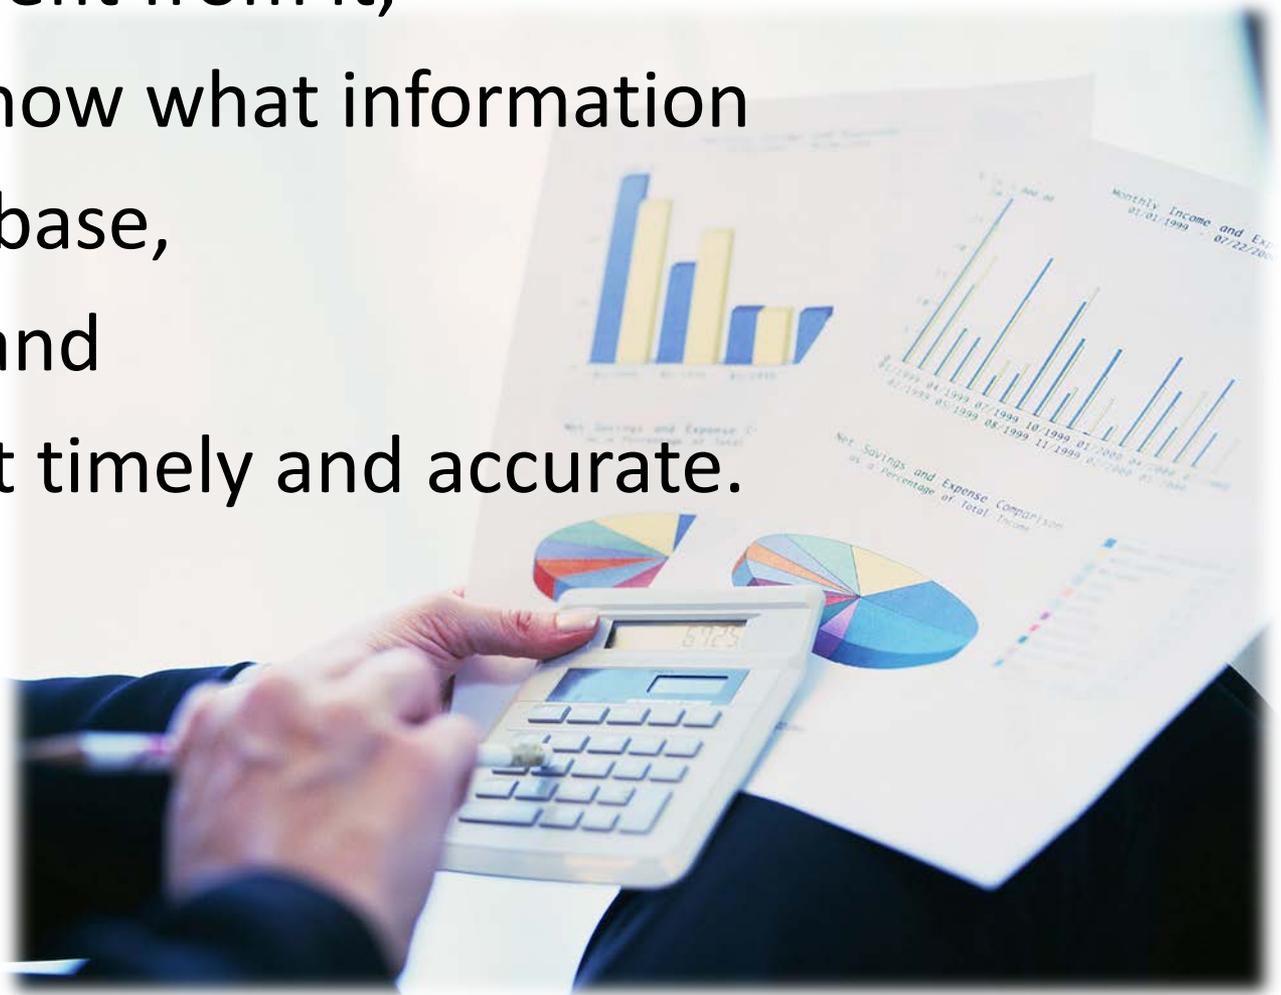

Good that you collected some useless data-stats for graphs etc., it shall keep everybody engaged in the presentation today.

Analyzing data
informs policy and practice decisions,
with the ultimate goal
of improving outcomes
for
the families you serve.

But data itself is a tool, not a solution.

To get any benefit from it,
you need to know what information
is in your database,
how to use it and
be assured is it timely and accurate.

ILP Data is a live real-time data set.

For federal and state reporting purposes we take a snapshot of the data –
freezing a copy of the live data.

This frozen snapshot tells your story from year to year.

Frozen state level data promotes:

- changes in policy
- regulations
- funding

Timely and accurate data is critical to show true trends from year to year.

*A frozen data set misses data points
and missed data
will not be represented on any annual reports.*

Examples

Report	FY12 Frozen	FY12 Live	Difference	Note
Child Count Part C enrolled	806	811	5	Five children were not reported to OSEP as enrolled 12/1/12
APR 45-Day Timeline Noncompliant	10	6	4	Four child records reported as noncompliant in error

While we can be proud of the small discrepancies, these differences translate to extra data cleaning for you and non-compliant status with a corrective action plan when in reality you are doing better than the data indicates.

Also,
your database reports are not as accurate as they could be.

Data Entry Exercise

Data entered in January 2013
examined to see how long after the event occurred
it was entered.

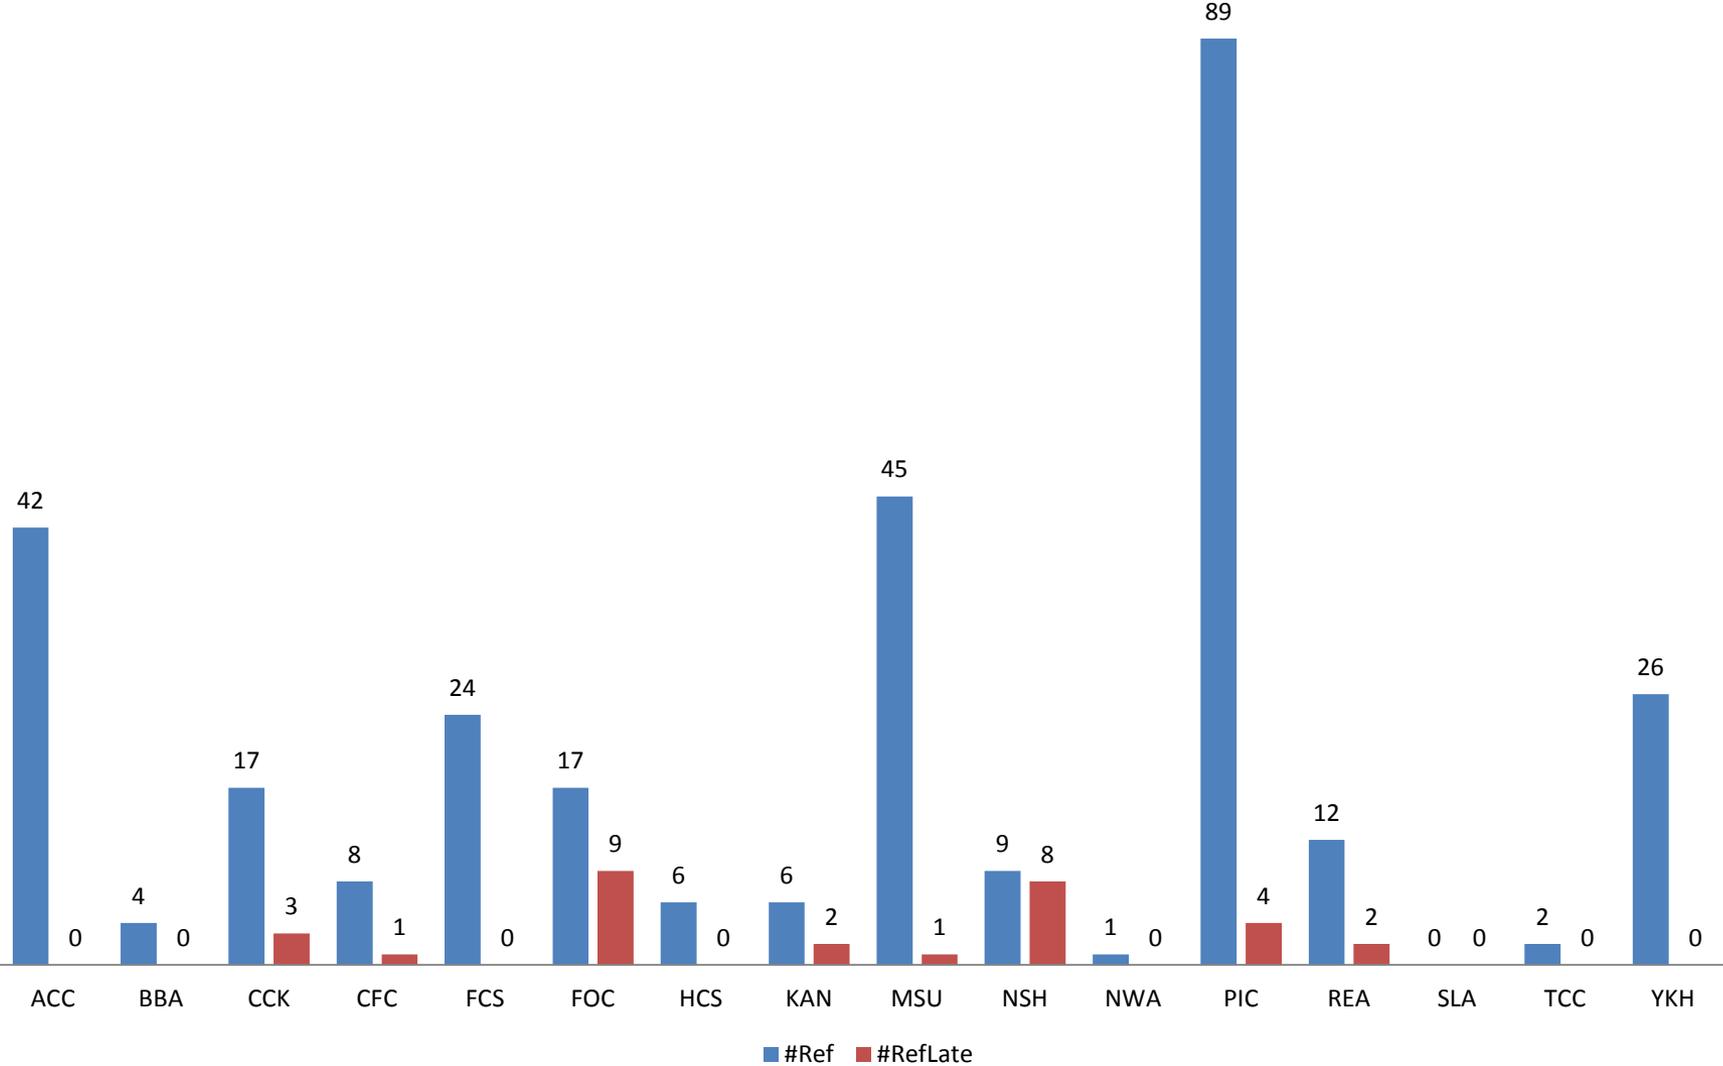

Definition of late data used for this exercise:
any data entered >30 days after the occurrence.

(ie: PT evaluation completed 11/15/12 was entered into the database on 1/5/13)

Average number of days late by event Jan 2013

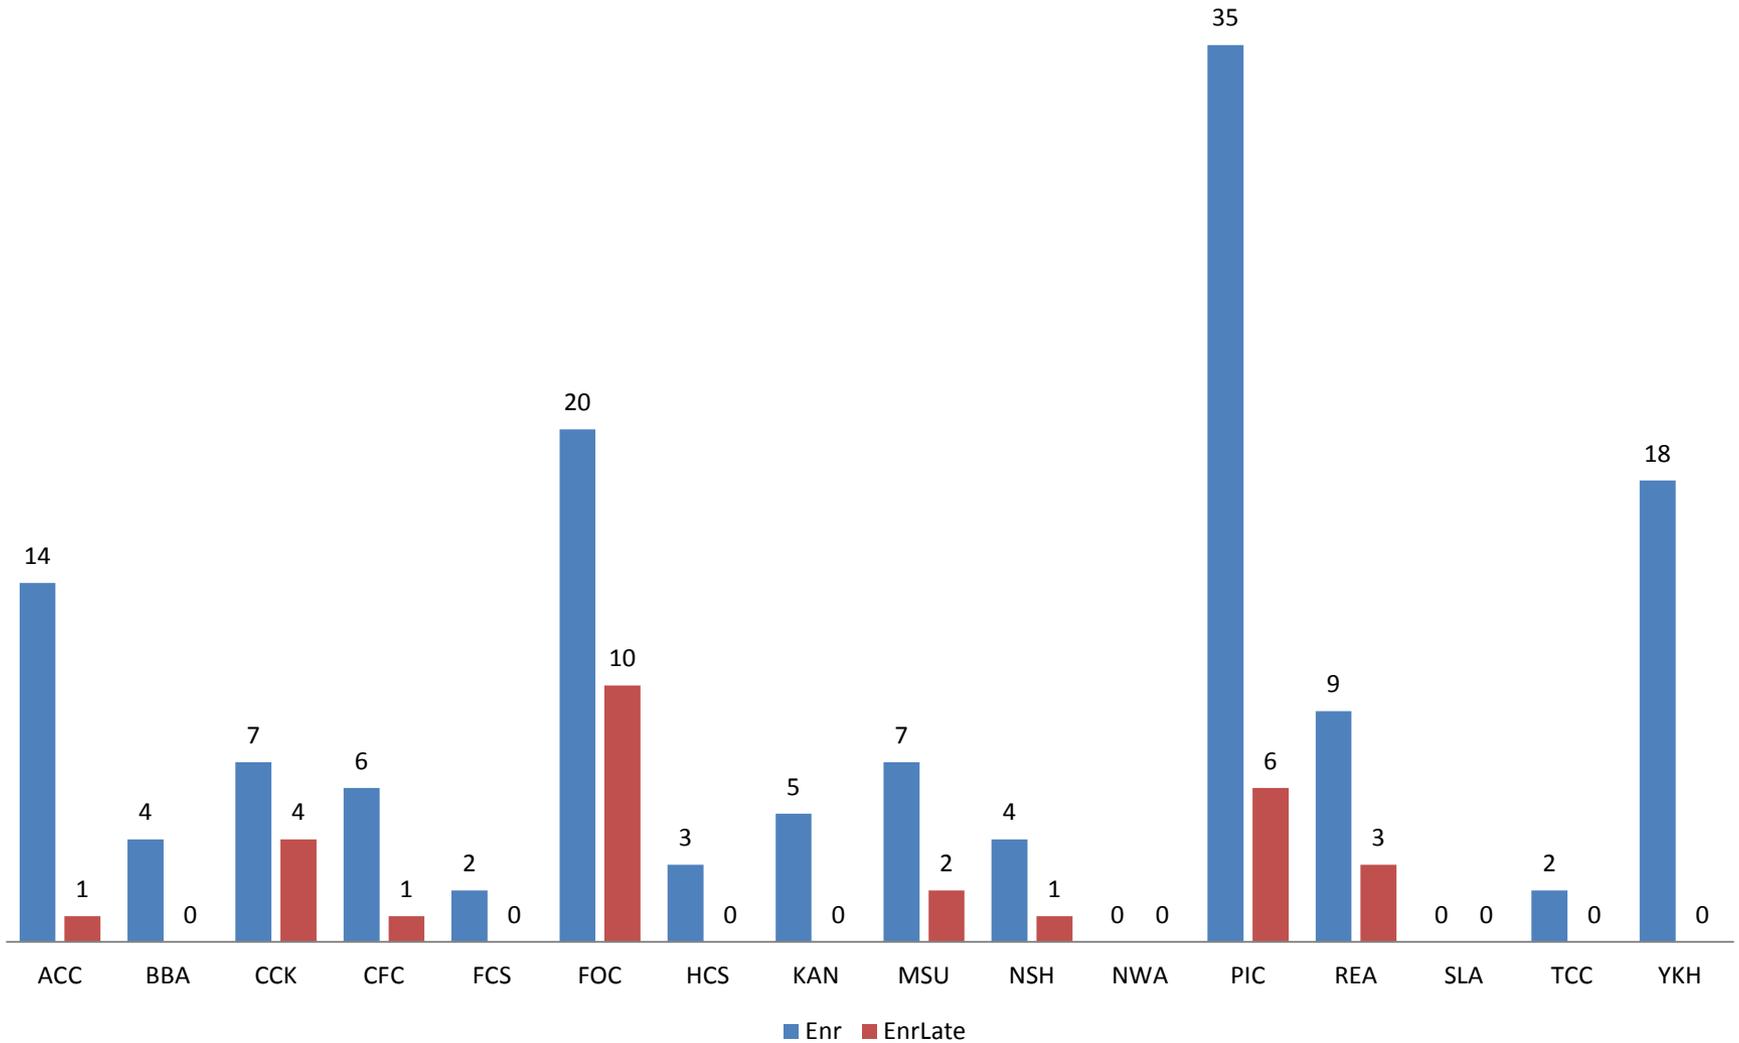

Late Ref Entries Jan 2013

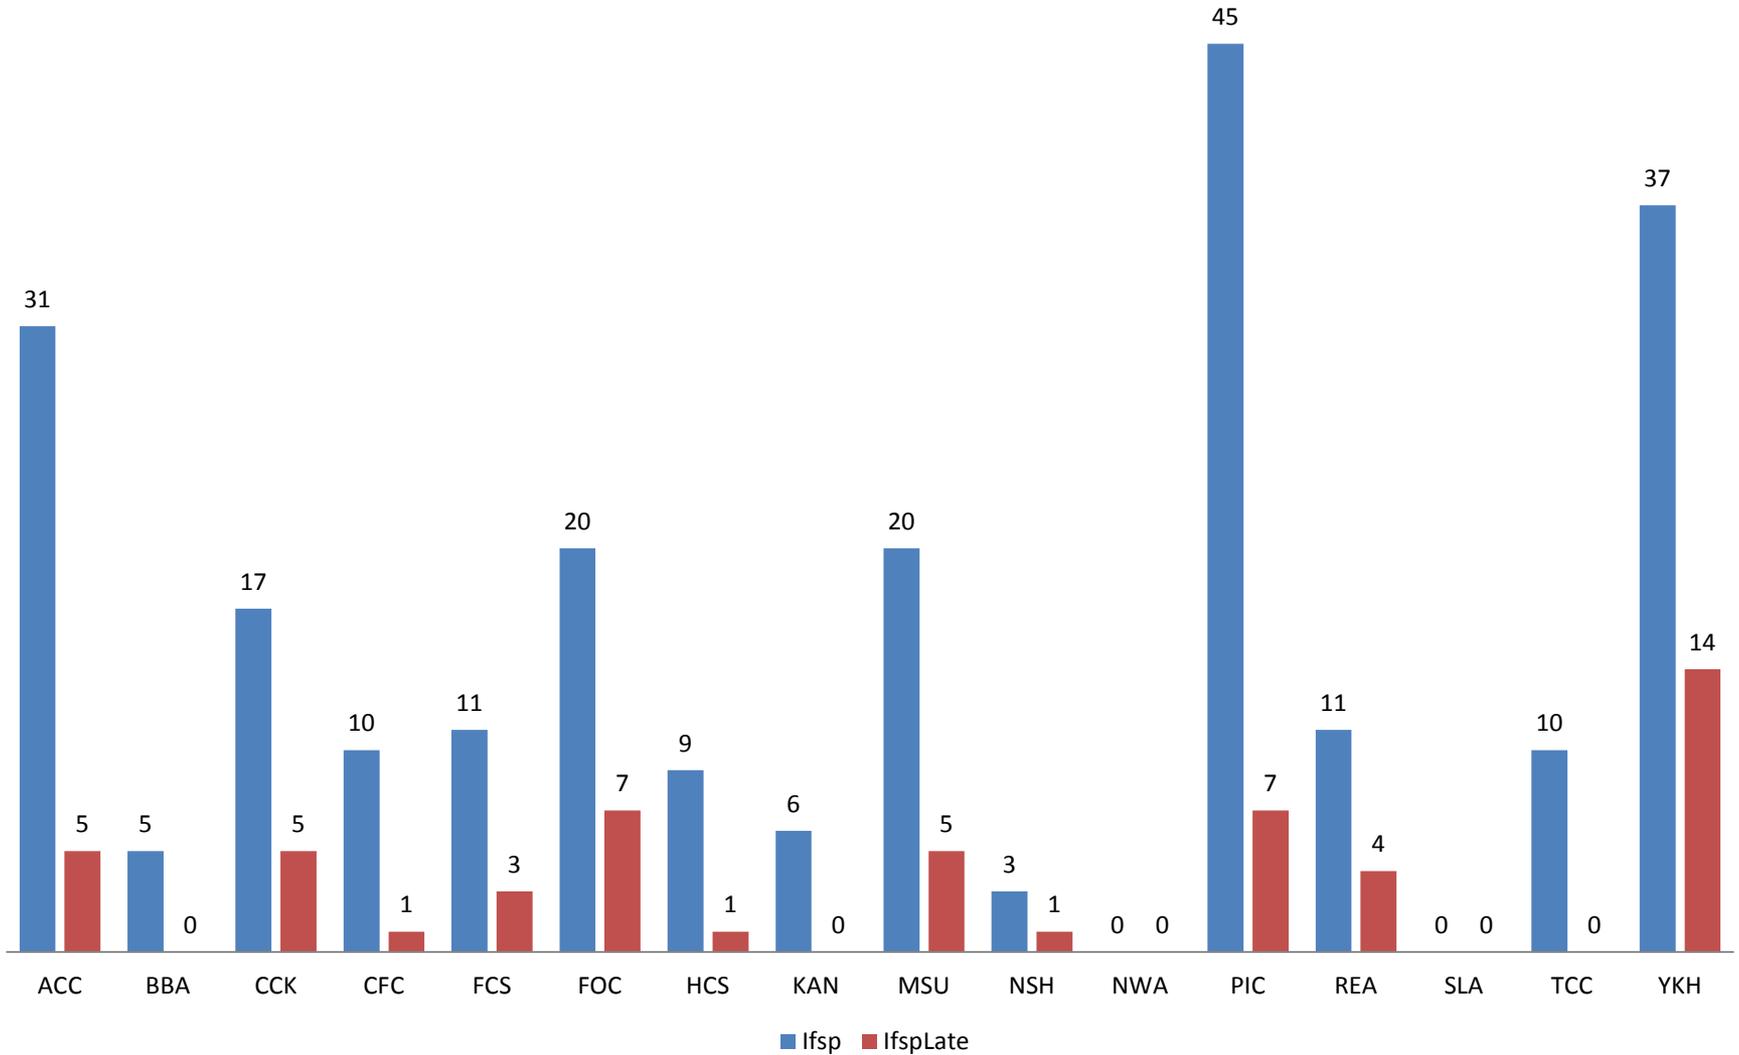

Late Eval Entries Jan 2013

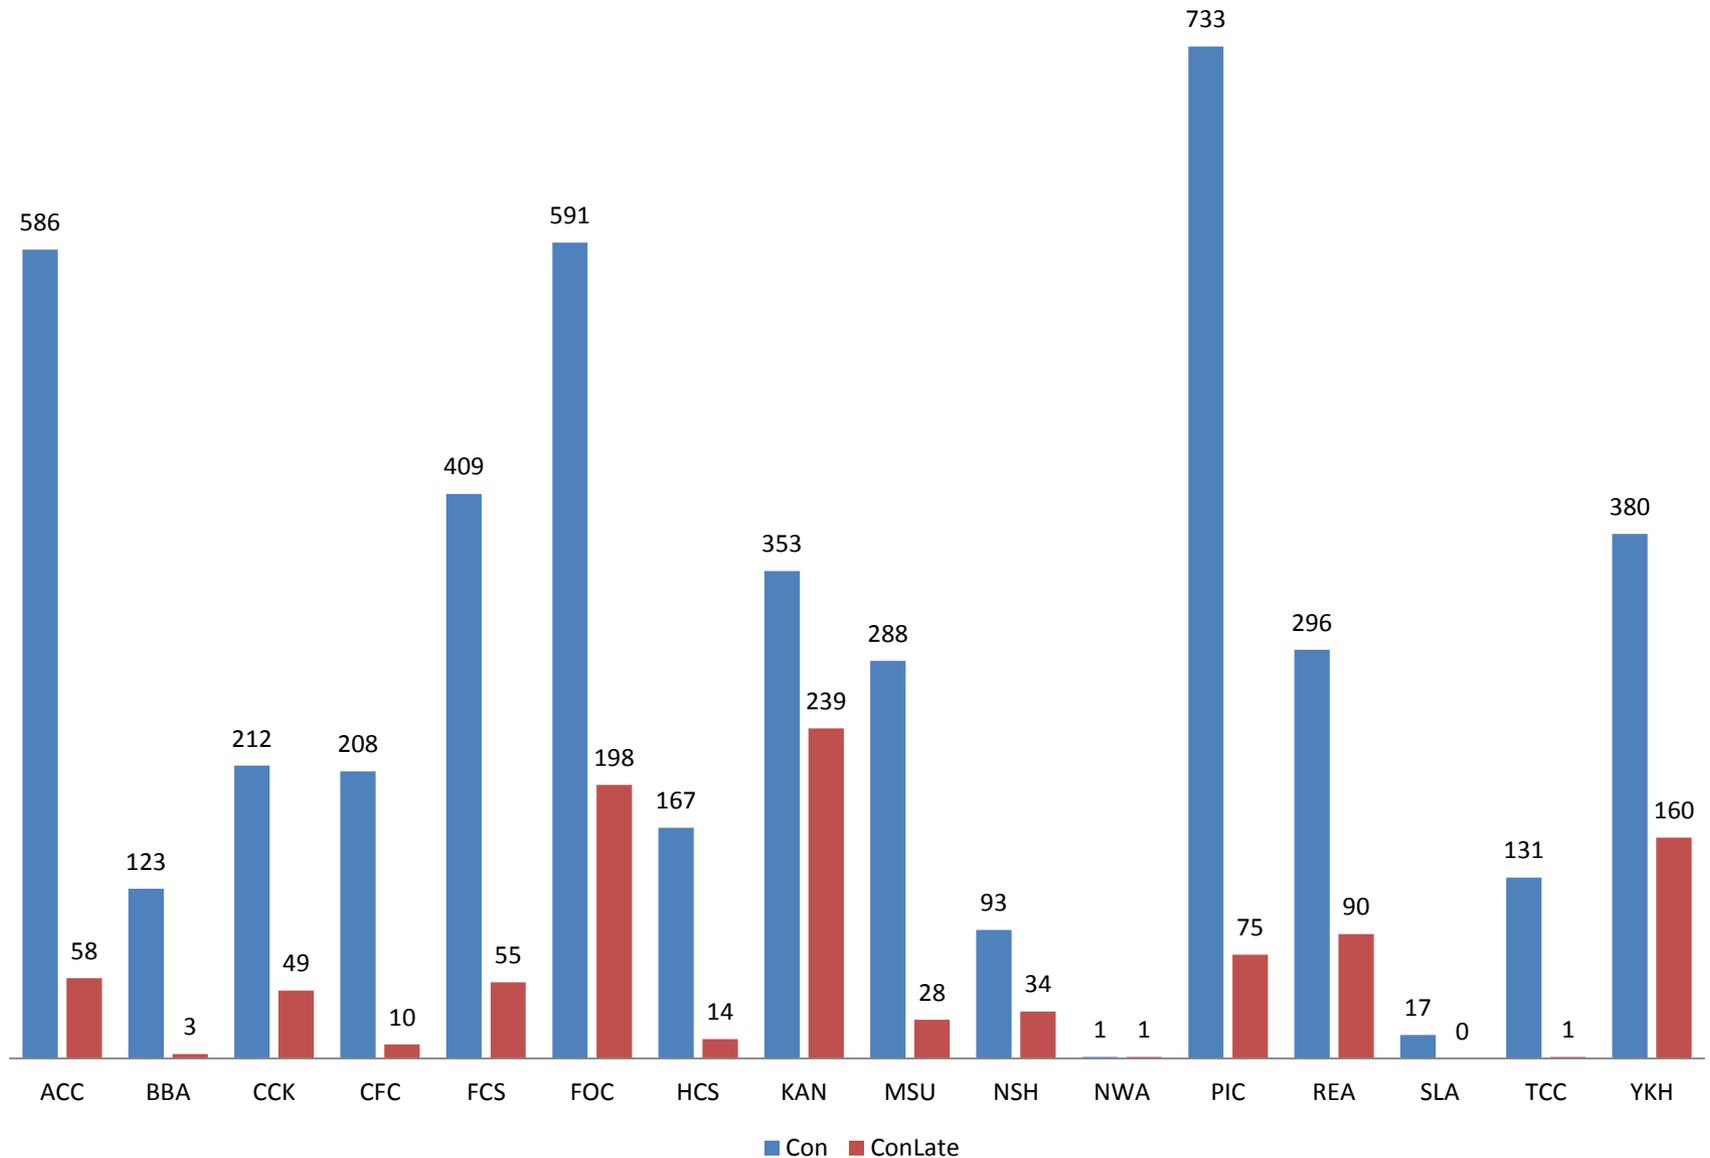

Late Enroll Entries Jan 2013

Late IFSP Entries Jan 2013

Late Contact Entries June 2013

FY14 grant agreements will require attention to data on a monthly basis.

Send suggestions for additional items on the cleaning and/or other reports and feedback as to how monthly data cleaning will affect your data entry system.

We are available for TA support.
