

Two Vacant Alaska Pioneer Home Advisory Board Seats

As of July 1, 2020 the Alaska Pioneer Homes Advisory Board has two vacant seats: one public seat and one veterans representative seat.

The board is appointed by the governor to establish a link between the general public, residents and policy makers to facilitate community feedback. Each seat carries a four year term with the ability to request re-appointment for a second, consecutive term. The board conducts business telephonically throughout the year (typically every other month) and has at least one annual in-person meeting at one of the six Pioneer Homes around the state (alternating homes yearly). The in-person meeting agenda includes a tour of the home and property, and a public meeting with residents and their families to facilitate information gathering. Many board members also choose to spend time in their nearest Pioneer Home visiting elders and collecting their thoughts on potential improvements and/or recommendations.

If you or someone you know has a desire to help be a voice for seniors living in the Alaska Pioneer Homes please consider applying for one of the vacant seats. Applying is easy and is coordinated through the Office of Boards and Commissions. Applications can be submitted online, or via email, fax or mail.
